

Child Life Service Project Ideas

Service projects are a fun way to get an organization, school class, or other group excited about giving back to the community. If your group is looking for a fun and exciting service project idea, then this is the page for you.

Arts and Crafts Drive

The kids here at John C. Lincoln Deer Valley Hospital love to do lots of drawing, cutting, gluing and coloring, which means we can always use arts and crafts supplies! Small packets of crayons and markers (packs of four or eight) work great for delivering stuff to rooms, and large boxes are nice to dump into our big crayon and marker box. Tiny scissors work nicely for our little patients developing their fine motor skills and glues are great for being able to stick that cotton ball onto that paper bag! All supplies must be new.

New Movie Drive

It can get pretty boring sitting around a hospital room all day, so being able to watch your favorite movie can often pass the time. Make a movie drive more fun by having members draw a single letter from a hat and having to pick movies that start with that specific letter, or try and see as a group how many movies you can collect that all start with the same letter! New DVDs and VHS tapes are welcome. Movies should be rated G, PG, or PG-13 please.

Band Aid Drive

Everyone knows pokes aren't any fun, but let a kiddo pick a fun band-aid when it's all over and you can bet they will be pretty excited about it. Any kind of fun bandage is fine, but Band-Aid, Curad, and Nexcare are some of the best. How many different types of fun character band-aids can you collect?
